Can authenticated users access my library's online services?

WorldCat.org users who are on an authenticated Web connection may see links to your online services in "local services" zone that is prominently featured within the detailed record. Options to view the item online, check for electronic resources or full text leads to your subscription information services that have WorldCat integration—or content available from sources such as OAIster, Hathi Trust, Internet Archive and others.

Possible links might include:

- FirstSearch databases
- Resource sharing
- Document delivery
- Full text
- OpenURL resolvers

These links for "recognized" users reflect the services you have identified within your institutional profile in the WorldCat Registry.

Questions I Still Have

- Scope of access - partner vs. consortia
  - Different record sets and access levels?
- Linking vs. Searching content - goal
- ~~If linking - local file vs. api, custom data set~~
- Ongoing updates (in any scenario)
- Do they ever lose content? How fast are they growing? Records from Serials Solutions?
